STABILIZATION OF CHINA'S FINANCIAL STRUCTURE

Dr. H.H. Kung, Minister Of Finance, Reports
On Fiscal Year 1934-1935: Success
Of Currency Reforms

DEBT CHARGES REDUCED: TAXES GROUPED

China's Budget Deficit during the fiscal year 1935-36 was even larger than in 1934-35, according to preliminary figures, and there was a material decrease of customs revenue in the past twelve months, due to wholesale smuggling in North China. International complications discouraging import commitments, reduced purchasing power due to floods and communist activities, and the lessening of imports due to lower exchange. This is disclosed by Dr. H. H. Kung, Minister of Finance, in his Report for the 23rd. fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, his third since assuming the post, and released for publication in Shanghai this week.

The National Debt stands at $335,000,000 but the major development during the year was the consolidation of internal debt, excepting four issues totalling about eight per cent. of the total consolidation loan which substitutes five series of bonds totalling $1,400,000,000 in place of 33 former issues and which now makes it possible to reduce debt charges by about $95,000,000 yearly. The budget deficit for 1935 is 20.8 per cent. the deficit being approximately $198 million with net total revenue at $745 million and net total payments at $941 million. Against this can be offset an approximate total of debt retirement of $125 million. Further, despite shrinkage of revenue and special demands on expenditure, the two largest items of budgeted expenditure (military at $388 millions, equalling 41.2 per cent. of net total payments, and loan and indemnity service at $237 million which equals 25.2 per cent. of net total payments) were maintained while educational and reconstruction expenditure increased from 2.87 per cent. for the previous year to 5.25 per cent. of net total payments at $58,804,107.

The chief achievement of the year, however, was in currency reform introduced in November 1935, substantiated by the coinage reform, taxation consolidation, provincial and local budgetary reorganization and general stabilization of the national finances.

ROYAL ARTILLERY ASSOCIATION

Annual Dinner Of Hong Kong Branch
SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION

One of the most pridesocial activities of the Royal Artillery Association, Hong Kong branch, for the year was their annual dinner in which all the members and guests thoroughly enjoyed to the utmost. The function was held at the Hotel Cecil last night.

Appropriate to the occasion, the entrance and precincts of the hotel were suitably decorated with greenery and coloured lights. The motto of the "Ubique," beautifully designed, and illuminated in the colours of the Regiment, surmounted the entrance hall, and at each side of the passage leading to the lift, an 1810 cannon of the Waterloo period surrounded by palms, was displayed. In the centre of the dining hall a large portrait of His Majesty King Edward VIII, Colonel in Chief of the Regiment, was prominent, while the uniformity of the colour scheme both for the decoration of the hall and the dinner-tables reminded the participants of their own regimental colours and made the atmosphere of the occasion very homely and cheerful.

THE SPEECH
Dinner was served at 8 p.m., and despite the gathering of over 300 members, everything was well catered for, and went off smoothly. After dinner the royal toast and the toast of the association were proposed by the Chairman Col. A. Burrows C.R.A. China Command who said:—
General Bartholomew, fellow Members—
It is hardly necessary for me to give anything more than the briefest of remarks in regard to the Royal Artillery Association.

BRILLIANT BAL MASQUE

Benefit For Charity
GAIETY AT THE "GLOUCESTER"

When there can be so much really good fun as there was last night at the Bal Masque in the Gloucester Hotel—then it is to be hoped that the claims of charity on the hearts and minds of the community will increase.

This Bal Masque, organised by an energetic committee with a characteristically competent and enthusiastic secretary in the person of Mrs Beatrice Church, was an unqualified success and the funds of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul should benefit considerably as a result.

Things started with a swing, but as the night progressed that swing developed into a perpetual loop, and the fun was fast, furious and fascinating.

After midnight a wave of gaiety simply swamped the ballroom, and the scenes were touchingly reminiscent of those which we have witnessed towards the close of the annual Artists' Ball in the Albert Hall—though not quite so Chelsea-like.

What with alluring senoritas, captivating Pompadours, tantalising Mary Queen of Scots, and one very naughty make-up suspiciously resembling a famous authoress whose ruling passion has made her notorious—why, it was a feast calculated to satisfy the most exacting Epicure of entertainment.

There were streamers, confetti, balloons and those delightfully idiotic things you blow and they squeak and spurt at your neighbour. And, of course, there were masques. Later in the proceedings, fortunately, many masques were discarded, and great was the joy thereof.

INDUSTRIAL MATTERS

Government Control

Nanking.
A set of provisional measures regarding industrial matters in Kwangtung was announced by the Ministry of Industry.

These measures have been drawn up in view of the fact that, in the past, industrial matters in Kwangtung were often dealt with in violation of the laws and ordinances of the Central Government.

The new measures state that factories or firms in Kwangtung to whom Trade Mark Certificates were issued by the Kwangtung Provincial Government after November, 1929, should submit their certificates to the Bureau of Trade Marks (Shang Piao Chu) of the Ministry of Industry for examination in accordance with law. No fee will be charged for such examination.

With regard to industrial projects undertaken in Kwangtung, which are not properly within the jurisdiction of the Kwangtung Provincial Government, it is stipulated that reports thereon must be forwarded by the Kwangtung Provincial Department of Reconstruction to the Ministry of Industry for due consideration and action.

FRENCH FINANCIAL SUPPORT

Tokyo.
An agreement has been concluded between the Ministry of Railways of the Nanking Government, the China Construction Company, and the Szechwan Provincial Government, on the one hand, and the French bank, according to which the latter will advance a sum of $30,000,000 for the construction of a railway between Chungking and Chengtu.

Since June of this year, a French engineer named Fontaine and a French financial adviser have been in Szechwan, carrying out investigations.

The purpose of French intervention in the development of Szechwan is to link up that province with French Indo-China by way of Yunnan—Shanghai Nippo.

AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE

Mr. Lloyd George's Vigorous Criticism

Mr. Lloyd George, in Volume 5 of his war memories devotes detailed attention to the American Armies in France and complains that at the outset America was entirely unprepared for carrying on active military operations on an adequate scale. Preparations for a vigorous prosecution of the war were in a manner which he found difficult to explain when looking at the dynamic energy and resourcefulness of these wonderful people.

"For almost a year after war had been declared the contribution of the mighty republic to the struggle in France was on a comparatively insignificant scale. It was very much less than that which the far smaller British nation had succeeded in making in a similar period."

"At the end of September, 1917, when America had been approximately six months at war, the total strength of the American Expeditionary Force in France was 61,531, and none of her divisions had as yet been placed in the line."

"But at the end of six months the British Expeditionary Force on the Western Front numbered 354,750. The first American division was put into a quiet sector of the French Front on October 21, 1917—nearly seven months after the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany. No other American division went into the line until eleven months had elapsed since the entry of America into the war."

A DRIBBLING RISE

"The tide of American forces in France, which was ultimately to swell to so large a flood, mounted only in dribbling fashion during those early months. By the end of October it was 87,000; by the end of November, 128,000; and at the beginning of 1918, 175,000. That was nine months after the entry of America into the war. At that stage in our own war effort we had already thrown 850,104 into the various war theatres."

"Yet this flow, so tardy for the time being, was watched with concentrated interest by friend and foe alike and became the dominating strategic factor in the calculations of both sides."

Gen. Sir W. Robertson, C.I.G.S., in a memorandum in January, 1918, to the War Cabinet, said: "Although one might expect that America, with her two previous experiences and her supposed great business and hustling qualities, would do better than other countries, the fact is that she is doing very badly. The French have lost all patience and their relations with the Americans are the reverse of good. The Americans are proceeding as if they had years in which to prepare. They have laid out cantonment areas for ten divisions and are building the most luxurious huts to supplement billets; each man has a bed and three blankets."

"My general impression is that America's power to help us to win the war—that is to help us to defeat the Germans in battle—is a very weak reed to lean upon at present, and will continue to be so for a very long time to come unless she follows up her words with actions much more practical and energetic than any she has yet taken."

LACK OF CO-OPERATION

"There can be little doubt," concludes Mr. Lloyd George, "that there was a lack of hearty co-operation between the American General and his French and British colleagues in the early stages."

REORGANISATION URGED

Salamanca, Nov. 5.
A broadcast message from the Government radio station at Valencia shows that the Anarchists, as had been expected, have now definitely been given posts in the Madrid Government. Largo Caballero was of the opinion that under the present circumstances the Cabinet must be reorganised and the Anarcho-syndicalists officially allotted their share of the responsibility in the Government. This proposal was accepted by President Azana.

Three Anarcho-syndicalists will enter the Cabinet, and take over the Ministries of Economics, Industry and Health. Foreign Minister del Vayo and the Socialist leader Prieto retain their post in the new Cabinet, which will shortly be enlarged by the creation of a propaganda and mobilisation Ministry.

Later the steady flow of men across the Atlantic was based upon schedule and, apart from temporary variations or difficulties, succeeded more or less in fulfilling it. The total ration strength of the American forces in France on November 1, 1918, was 1,888,000.

"Of these forces 51.25 per cent. were transported to France in British-owned or controlled vessels, 46.25 per cent. in American, and 2.5 per cent. in other vessels. Thus the principal share of the carrying and a large share in the conveying of the American Army was taken by the British Mercantile Marine and the British Navy."

"When we come to the equipment of the American Army for the task it is a lamentable story of indecision and bustling incompetency."

"Let us take the aeroplanes as an example. When America entered the war the British and French aeroplanes were as efficient as any that hovered over the battlefields of Europe. No American aeroplanes were sent across the Atlantic during the whole of 1917. Even during the great battles of April, May, and June, 1918, American aviators had to fly in French machines for they had none of their own. It was July, 1918, before the Paragon was fully developed, and then it turned out no better than—in fact, not as good as—the thousands with which the British and French aviators had already won the command of the air before the 'Liberty' machines had left the workshop or even the draughtsman's table."

FRENCH AND BRITISH AEROPLANES

"When the Armistice was signed on November 11 half the aeroplanes used by the American Army were of French and British make."

"The same tale of fussy muddle can be repeated in the matter of guns, light and heavy, for the new American Army, the light and medium artillery used up to the end of the war by the American Army was supplied by the French. The heaviest artillery was furnished by the British. No field guns of American pattern or manufacture fired a shot in the war. The same thing applies to tanks. Here one would have thought that the nations who were the greatest manufacturers of automobiles in the world have turned out tanks with the greatest facility and in the largest numbers, but not a single tank of American manufacture ever rolled into action in the war."

DEFECTIVE TRANSPORT

"Transport was so defective that ships sometimes took a couple of months to turn round at the ports, and on land it was so badly organized that in spite of help which was forthcoming from other armies a large number of the American troops who fought so gallantly in the Argonne in the autumn of 1918 were without sufficient food, to sustain them in their heroic struggle in a difficult terrain. The American soldiers were superb. That is a fact which is acknowledged not only by their friends and British comrades, but by their enemies as well."

"There were no braver or more fearless men in any army, but the organization at home and behind the lines was not worthy of the reputation which American business men have deservedly won for smartness, promptitude, and efficiency."—From "The Naval and Military Record."

INFANTRY SERVICE EXTENDED

Brussels, Nov. 5.
The prolongation of the period of service for the infantry to 18 months was an absolute necessity, said Premier Van Zeeland addressing the special commission of the Chamber for examining the military estimates. The Government would be glad to receive any suggestions, but must abide by the principles of strengthening the national defence, and would make this question one of a vote of confidence in Parliament if necessary.

THE MILWAUKEE ROAD

WORSHIP AS SOCIAL SERVICE

STIMULATING ACTION

(BY "SCRUTATOR")

The Church is often condemned, for being a hymn-singing institution and the condemnation is based on the belief that worship, as such, has little or no place in the social life of any community. This is a fundamental error and it is responsible for present-day irreligion.

Many good and able men and women are thinking thus.

Poverty, and disease, and ugliness, they are arguing, are as damaging and as depressing as sin. They degrade human life. The world would be better with less hymn-singing, less preaching, and with more energy and thought devoted to abolishing social evils. Moreover, not all the people who think thus are divorced from institutional religion. Some of them are deeply religious, but there are others, thousands of them who are either lukewarm or utterly hostile to the Church because they feel that she is not wholehearted, that she is not sincere on this matter of social reform and social righteousness. They find the Church mainly interested in a somewhat meagre and negative personal morality ("not gambling," "not being impure") and afraid to speak of the big problems of social or institutional morality with decision and effectiveness.

POSITIVENESS

Can the Church rebut these charges? Yes, of course she can! Do not the names of men like Studdert Kennedy, Charles E. Raven, Reinhold Niebuhr, mean something? What of the Church and Nation Committee of the Church of Scotland, the Industrial Christian Fellowship in England? Are the Salvation Army, are the Church's model lodging-houses, rescue homes, training farms, relief and emigration schemes, are our hospitals, which without the Christian inspiration and without Christian generosity would not exist, are these no answer to the social reformer's charge? And Boy's Brigades, and Scouts, and Y.M.C.A. institutions, and clubs for men and boys, are these nothing? Aren't these a substantial contribution to human welfare? Don't they fight against poverty and ugliness, and disease and ignorance.

DEEPER THAN MATERIAL

And more! To the social reformer critic who thinks religion irrelevant, the Church states, and rightly states "Your social programme is not enough! If religion has allowed itself to be too much divorced from social service, you will not help but seriously hinder social service by making the decree absolute. Without the Christian vision of the true values of life, nourished in worship, your social service will lose all direction, and will eventually in a dull, life-destroying materialism. We may all get baths and electric light and television receivers, and in the luxuriance of things, lose sight of the truth of God and of the deeper than material meaning of human existence in this world.

THE MASSIVE TASK

And yet the Christian in honest hours does feel that the Church has in fact mostly shirked the massive task, the most fundamental in our time, of Christianising the essential social relationships. The world in which men work and breed is a sweaty world, noisy, dusty, untidy, cruel world. It is a world in which, unless men are truly Christian, they soon learn to hate and fight each other, man against man, class against class, nation against nation. Yet the Church ought to be, but isn't, right there where the real struggle is going on. It is into that world that worship, of God, of Christ, of man, must be born. It is exactly there that the Church can do its biggest and most characteristic piece of social service. It is surely one of the main functions of the Church to bring every aspect of our social life into a Christian scrutiny and inspiration. The Church must bring the solid real world of work and labour into its worship of hymns and prayers, of Bible-readings and sermons.

Father of men, in whom are one All human kind beneath the sun. Establish our work in Thee begun. Man lives not for himself alone. In others' good he finds his own; Life's worth in fellowship is known.

O Christ, our Elder Brother, who By serving man God's will didst do.

Help us to serve our brethren too. We should be prepared to deal with all questions which agitate reformers, parliamentarians, novelists, and always from the distinctive-point of Christian moral values. We must be prepared to relate our religion intimately and in some detail to the whole human struggle against poverty, ignorance, disease, ugliness, and sin. In such a union both social reform and religion would be revitalised, and the forces of each would receive a great accession of numerical strength, and of living power.

Spirit of God dwell in you. (Romans 8: 1-9.)

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health, with key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

"The son of the Virgin-mother, unfold the remedy for Adam or error; and the apostle Paul explains this warfare between the idea of divine power, which Jesus presented, and mythological material intelligence called energy, and opposed to Spirit. As the individual idea of Truth, Christ Jesus came to rebuke rabbinical error, and all sin, sickness, and death, to point out the way of Truth and Life. This ideal was demonstrated through out the whole earthly career of Jesus, showing the difference between the offspring of Soul and of material sense, of Truth and of error. John saw the human and divine coincidence, shown in the man Jesus, as divinity embracing humanity in Life and its demonstration, reducing to human perception and understanding the Life which is God. In divine revelation, material and corporeal selfhood disappear, and the spiritual idea is understood. There is but one spiritual existence—the Life of which corporeal sense can take no cognizance. The divine Principle of man speaks through immortal sense. The standard of perfection was originally God and man. Has God taken down His own standard, and has man fallen? God is the creator of man, and the divine Principle of man remaining perfect, the divine idea or reflection man, remains perfect. Man is the expression of Gods being. (Pages 534, 30, 561, 72, 470.)

"ROAD TO GLORY"

A dramatic star shell is promised in "The Road to Glory," 20th Century Fox production which opens to-day at the Queen's and Alhambra Theatres. Featuring the year's most impressive cast, the film is hailed as the strangest, strongest drama of love ever brought to the screen.

Fredric March, Warner Baxter and Lionel Barrymore, are starred, with the supporting cast headed by June Lang and Gregory Ratooff.

Fired with the inspired acting of such performers, the film tells a gripping story of love in all its phases, painted on a canvas as the war itself.

Baxter is seen as the war-weary commander of a valiant regiment. Monique, a lovely French nurse, provides him with his only interest in life.

Fredric March, Baxter's chief aid, unwittingly falls in love with Monique too, unaware that Baxter cares deeply for the girl.

The triangle creates a crisis between the two men, which is increased when Baxter, to his astonishment, discovers that his father, Lionel Barrymore, is a private in the regiment.

Glowing with pride over the old soldier's heroism, Baxter's sense of duty compels him to order Barrymore to the rear, for the captain fully realizes that if one man should err in his duty the entire company might be endangered.

Barrymore is not so easily discouraged, however, and his burning desire to serve his flag under his son, prompts him to bribe Gregory Ratooff to lose the order when it comes through. Thus, when the regiment moves towards the front, Barrymore is in the ranks.

Good Luck For Film Fans

Two red heads and a white horse have the principal roles in Warner Bros. "Moonlight on the Prairie," a new type of Western picture with music which opens at the Majestic Theatre on Sunday. They are Dick Foran, the singing cowboy, Sheila Mannors and "Smoke" so named because he's white.

"ANYTHING GOES"

Yesterday saw the local opening of "Anything Goes," at the Majestic Theatre. This is the Paramount presentation of the musical comedy which was such a pronounced success on Broadway. It abounds in tuneful songs, comic scenes, and a set of parodies on the "You're the Top" hit which are riotously funny.

Bing Crosby heads the cast of favourites in a role that affords him an unrivalled opportunity to display his versatile talents in song and comedy. He sings and clowns to one's heart's content. Assisting in the general merriment are Ethel Merman, known everywhere as the Broadway rhythm girl, Charlie Ruggles, Grace Bradley, and Ida Lupino.

A whirlwind chase at the dock winds up in a fervid romantic confession while a dazed mob hears Bing's whispered words of affection boom through the air through the agency of a loud speaker.

There's fun and sparkling entertainment in "Anything Goes."

"THE WHITE ANGEL"

The lives of great men and women are more and more becoming a subject of motion picture production in Hollywood. Certainly, it is true, that entertainment and biography can go hand in hand. Such a film as Warner Bros. "The Story of Louis Pasteur," for example, has shown that the movie portrayal of a famous character can indeed be as educational as it is thrilling.

Final proof of Hollywood's excellence in the field of screen biography can be seen in First National's production of "The White Angel," starring Kay Francis in the role of the immortal Florence Nightingale. The picture is now playing at the King's Theatre.

We all know how Florence Nightingale unselfishly devoted her whole life to bettering the condition of the Victorian hospitals; how through her ceaseless struggle she demonstrated the need for nurses' training schools; how her final victory finally became the victory of all womankind.

"The White Angel" is a splendid chapter in screen entertainment and was directed by William Dieterle.

ALHAMBRA TO BE PULLED DOWN

£600,000 Scheme For A Cinema

The Alhambra, Leicester-square, one of London's most famous theatres, is to be pulled down to make room for a cinema.

The site—measuring 25,000 square feet, including the Turkish baths adjoining—has been purchased by Mr. Oscar Deutsch, head of the Odeon circuit, and a new Odeon, to seat 2,000 people, will be erected.

The cost of the scheme, including the land, is expected to be about £600,000.

Mr. Andrew Mather and Mr. Harry Weedon will be the architects, and Sir Robert McAlpine and Sons the contractors. The deal, one of the most important of its kind that the West End has known, was negotiated with Sir Oswald Stoll, head of Alhambra Theatres Ltd., by Mr. Claud Goddard, of Goddard and Smith, King-street, St. James's.

TERRACE OF SHOPS
The new cinema will have its main entrance on Leicester-square. On its other frontage, in Charing Cross-road, there is to be a terrace of shops, and above this accommodation for offices.

Mr. Deutsch's career has been one of the most remarkable in the film industry. Three years ago he ran 14 cinemas as a sideline. Now there are 125 Odeons open and 75 more under construction. Employing 14 architects at once and an army of workmen, he has made it a policy to open a new cinema every fortnight. Each seats from 1,000 to 1,500 persons.

It was in the Alhambra that one of London's first films was shown in 1896. During the war the theatre was the home of revues produced by M. Andre Charlot and Sir Oswald Stoll. Of these "The Bing Boys," starring George Robey and Violet Lorraine, is probably best remembered.

In recent years its history has been characteristically varied. It was wired for talking films, "Waltzes from Vienna" was a great hit in 1931. In 1933 a £50,000 company was formed to convert it into a "palace of entertainment," and recently it has reverted to ballet.

MARRIAGE ALLOWANCE

Increase In Three Services

Increases in marriage allowance for sailors, soldiers, and airmen became operative on October 1.

As far as the Navy is concerned, for men on the 1925 scale of pay the existing rate of marriage allowance is augmented by a fixed weekly sum of 3s., but allowances for children remain as before. The increase will also apply to reservists on that scale while undergoing training, but not to men on the 1919 scale and certain others.

In the Army the rate of marriage allowance issuable to soldiers not on the married quarters roll (including Territorials and Supplementary Reserve), at present 7s. a week is increased by 3s. a week for soldiers drawing 3s. 8d. pay or less a day. Other increases are in proportion to pay drawn. The rates for children remain unaltered.

Airmen whose substantive pay does not exceed 3s. 8d. a day and who are not on the married establishment—the rate of marriage allowance at present is 7s. a week—also receive an increase of 3s. The rate for airmen not on the married establishment in receipt of substantive pay in excess of 3s. 8d. a day will, where necessary, be increased to secure that the total received in substantive pay and marriage allowance is not less than they would have received, if their rate of substantive pay were 3s. 8d. a day.

MISS RUTH ETTING

Miss Ruth Etting, the crooner singer in "Trampin' the Blues," sailed from Southampton in the Normandie recently for New York. Miss Etting said that she left the show because she "had to contend with too much aggravation." She regretted having to take such a step, but she was going home bearing ill-will to no one.

$400,000 FOR CREDITORS

Disposal Of Money Decided

A meeting of the Canton creditors of the American-Oriental Finance Corporation was held in the Supreme Court building yesterday when, under the direction of Mr. J. B. Prentiss, Official Receiver, a unanimous decision was reached regarding the sum of $400,000 received from Dr. Sellets at Shanghai to meet the Canton claims. The amount of $302,324.21 besides fully-paid and partly-paid shares were represented by creditors at the meeting.

The Official Receiver pointed out that the purpose of the meeting was to try to come to some unanimous decision as to how this sum was to be disposed of in dividends. Although there is no authority in English or American law as to how this money was to be dealt with, Mr. Prentiss proposed four alternatives to meet the case. It was finally agreed to adopt the proposition calling for preferential treatment as follows:—That the claims of fully paid share creditors be paid in full at the value of the shares in Hong Kong currency at the date of liquidation and that all other creditors rank equally for dividends against the assets brought to credit.

To this was added the following resolution:—That all claims in a foreign currency established at market values be converted at the rate of exchange prevailing on the date of liquidation or on the date the contracts closed, if subsequent to the date of liquidation.

The Official Receiver pointed out that the resolutions passed at the meeting would be put before the Chief Justice for his approval and that in all probability a first dividend of 50% would be paid to creditors at the end of December.

SMART POLICE WORK

Snatchers Caught Within Half Hour

Chan Man Yuk, 17, snatched the bag of a Chinese widow, Chan Mui Ying, at the bus stop at Pokfulam Road, near Ricci Hall.

Running to a clump of bushes nearby, he was joined by Chan Sek Fui, and they both made off together.

As there was no policeman in sight, the complainant reported the matter to the police.

A Chinese detective found Chan Sek Fui within half an hour of the incident, and a bunch of keys belonging to the woman was recovered, but there was no trace of the bag.

Appearing before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy yesterday, the first defendant was remanded in police custody for medical examination preparatory to a thrashing.

Chan Sek Fui was sentenced to four months' hard labour.

ROBBERY SEQUEL

Man Gets His Desserts

A sequel to a robbery which was committed on May 1, 1935, was heard yesterday by Mr. K. Keen, at the Central Magistracy when Cheung Ping-kwong was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

Defendant was the third of a gang of six to be apprehended for the theft of $2,300 from Lai Hin, a wood dealer, last year.

Two others were convicted the day before yesterday for complicity in the robbery, which was described as one with menaces.

No proof could be established that they carried any arms on the day in question.

When his Worship asked Insp. Flattery, who was prosecuting, why that case was not for committal, the reply was that there was no evidence against defendant except his own word.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday Wong Wing Sang, 38, odd job cooie, of no fixed abode, of Po San in Shanghai was committed to stand his trial at the next sessions for complicity in an armed robbery which took place in No. 229 Nathan Road.

WATER TANK STOLEN

Man Removes 200lbs. Load!

For the theft of a water tank, Chen Fo Chai was sentenced to three months by Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy yesterday. Upon Insp. Kirby's informing His Worship that defendant had returned from banishment a further sentence of nine months imprisonment was imposed.

On November 5, defendant was arrested on information received by the police. It appears that the tank, weighing 200 pounds, was seen by servants of the Hong Kong University in a nullah on a hillside close by.

It was reported to Mr. S. E. Weller, of the Engineering Faculty, but when the police arrived on the scene the tank had disappeared.

When defendant was arrested, he told the police where the tank could be found. It had been taken apart.

The value of the tank was $14, but was of no use after it had been cut up.

OLD MAN AND DUD COINS

A YEAR'S JAIL IMPOSED

For having in his possession 182 pieces of counterfeit ten-cent coins, Tam Choi, 58 year old farmer, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment by Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Defendant was arrested at the Po Tak Wharf, Connaught Road, Central, upon the arrival of the S. S. Tin Yat from Canton by Chinese Revenue Officer, Li Chan.

The officer searched him and found some rolls of counterfeit coins strapped around his waist. Taken to the Central police station, 182 counterfeit coins were found on him in various pockets.

In a statement to the police, Tam said that he was given the coins by a woman, whose name he did not know, and he was to buy some goods for her.

They were to meet at Kowloon, in front of the Dairy Farm. Taken to Kowloon, no one came to meet defendant.

Sug-Insp. M. J. Flattery told his Worship that the only reason that defendant was not committed to sessions was because of his advanced age.

Mr. Keen replied that he was sorry for the old man but he had to impose a sentence of twelve months.

FRAUDULENT CONVERSION

Forty Fresh Charges Preferred

AGAINST EUROPEAN

Appearing on remand yesterday before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy, J. C. Gardner was further remanded formally for a week.

He was charged with the fraudulent conversion of $154.60 from the Union Insurance Company of Canton on November 4. Mr. W. A. Mackinlay of Messrs. Deacons was in court.

Forty other charges were preferred against defendant.

Det. Insp. J. Murphy asked for a week's formal remand in order to ascertain whether the hearing should be taken for committal or summarily.

The defendant pleaded guilty to all the charges, and Insp. Murphy told Mr. K. Keen that the prosecution could prove the fraudulent conversion of about $2,000.

CHASE AT 45 M.P.H.

Mr. A. Buhorn of Banque de l'Indo Chine was fined $15 by Mr. E. Himsworth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday for exceeding the speed limit in a controlled area.

Sergeant Scrim stated that on October 19 he was driving along Nathan Road when car No. 411 overtook him in the controlled area at a very high speed. The car was apparently trying to overtake another car in front. "I followed car No. 411 at 45 m.p.h. but could not overtake him till he stopped at the ferry," stated the prosecuting officer.

HEAVY FINES

European Skipper In Court

Heavy fines were imposed on Captain F. Sammelmann, the master of the S. S. Da Shing, by Commander J. B. Newell, D.S.O., R.N., yesterday at the Marine Court.

For giving an incorrect tally of passengers when he applied for clearance, he was fined $25 or one month in gaol.

$200 or two months' imprisonment was the imposition for carrying a greater number of passengers than allowed by the clearance.

The largest fine was $2,400, or in default three months' imprisonment with hard labour, for carrying more than 12 passengers without the necessary passengers' certificate.

Defendant pleaded guilty to all the charges.

It was revealed that Sub-Inspector Butcher summoned the master of the vessel for carrying forty-eight more passengers than was in the clearance sheet. The ship was stopped after she had sailed from her mooring, and was brought back.

TRAVEL BUREAU

Governor Pays Visit

On Thursday afternoon His Excellency, Sir Andrew Caldecott, accompanied by Capt. W.J.R. Cragg, A.D.C., paid a special visit to the Travel Association's new headquarters in Kowloon—the Travel Bureau.

After being welcomed by the Chairman of the Association, the Hon. Mr. W.J. Carrie, His Excellency carefully inspected the premises and expressed himself pleased with the architectural and general arrangements.

Sir Andrew later signed the visitor's book and inscribed therein his wishes for the good luck of the Bureau.

TRAFFIC SUMMONS

Summoned before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday, Commander A. R. Thatcher, of the H.M.S. Tamar, was fined $10 for driving his car on Peak Road, which is closed to traffic, and $5 for having caused an obstruction outside Queen's Theatre on October 24.

Defendant was not in court, but sent in a letter admitting the charges.

ANOTHER CASE

For having caused an obstruction on the highway near the Dairy Farm on October 23, when there were crowds of Chinese on their way to celebrate a festival, Li Chik-chun was fined $30.

Insp. Saunders said that defendant was driving at a fairly fast rate of speed, and the language

INTERESTING ADDRESS

"How We Got Our Bible"

The weekly Christian Fellowship Meeting was held at the Helena May Institute yesterday morning, when the Rev. K. MacKenzie Dow of the Union Church, Hong Kong, gave a very interesting address on "How we got our Bible."

Rev. Dow's talk was mostly on the translation of the Hebrew language to the modern translation. The Hebrew wrote from right to left, the reverse to our own writing, and they did not use vowels which was on the same principal of the modern shorthand. In addition the words were not spaced. This was the main reason for so many different translations based on the same incident which occurred in the Old Testament.

Owing to slight mistakes in writing Hebrew on the part of the Jews, we obtained chapters in the bible having different names, though the subject was the same. The Jews were very thorough in not wasting space, as for instance if a word did not end up at the end of the line, what they did was to take the last letters in the previous line, and add them to the empty space. If therefore the translator was not careful the whole meaning of the phrase would be misunderstood.

To explain further what he meant, the speaker gave a very good example written in our own language, "Godsinnower" which could be taken in two ways (a) God is now here or (b) God is no where.

CORRESPONDENCE

AVIATION SERVICE

(To The Editor, "Hong Kong Daily Press")

Dear Sir,—On Sunday, November 15, an Aviation Service will be held in St. John's Cathedral at 11 o'clock. This, no doubt, will be of great interest to the air-minded people of Hong Kong as it will be a similar service to that held in Canterbury Cathedral earlier this year when flags were deposited.

In that case the flags of the Royal Air Force, Civil Aviation and Imperial Airways were presented. In the Aviation Service to be held on November 15 only the Civil Aviation Ensign and Imperial Airways House Flag will be deposited for safe custody. It is hoped that particularly those who have served in any form in connection with aviation will attend this Service.

Yours faithfully,
P. E. BASKETT,
S. R. KERR.

PRETTY PEAK WEDDING

Consul's Daughter Married

RERGAUST-LARSEN

The Peak Church—snuggled cosily amid the brilliant foliage that abounded on the hillside—was the scene of a pretty wedding when Aasta Larsen, daughter of Mr. K. Larsen and Mrs. Larsen of No. 7 Peak Mansions, became the bride of Marius Rergaust, of Messrs. W. R. Loxley & Co., Canton, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Larsen is consul for Norway in Hong Kong.

Pastor Reichelt officiated. Both bride and bridegroom are popular members of the local foreign community.

The bride looked charming as she entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given away. She wore a pretty white satin dress, with a white tulle veil and her headpiece was in the form of a halo, which was most becoming. She carried a bouquet of pink African daisies, lending a touch of colour to the whole ensemble.

The bride's mother wore a smart plum coloured velvet dress, and Mrs. J. R. L. Stanton who was the matron of honour, was attired in black velvet with hat to match.

Mr. B. Natus discharged the duties of best man. There was a large gathering of friends at a reception held later at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden, where the customary toasts in felicitation of the happy pair were honoured.

The honeymoon is being spent at Repulse Bay Hotel, the bride's going away dress being a brown ensemble, with shoes, hat and bag to match.

LOCAL ESTATES

The late Mrs. Edith Allen Morgan, widow, formerly of Central Lodge 55, Central Hill, Upper Norwood, Surrey, who died on March 22 last, left local estate amounting to $23,400.

Local estate worth $6,500 was left by the late Mr. Thomas Leslie Brown, planter and estate manager, formerly of Ulu Buloh Estate, Sungai Buloh, Selangor, F.M.S., who died on December 12, 1935, at the Royal Hotel, Peterhead, Aberdeen, Scotland.

ANTI-MUI TSAI MEETING

The 15th Annual General Meeting of the Hong Kong Anti-Mui Tsai Society will be held to-day at 7.30 p.m. at the Chinese Y.W.C.A., Bonham Road. Election of the General Committee for 1937 will take place and a report on the past year's work will be read.

FINANCE

COMMITTEE MEETING

Big Supplementary Vote Asked

QUEEN MARY HOSPITAL

Supplementary votes totalling $88,819 are to be dealt with at a meeting of the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council to be held on Monday at 2.30 p.m.

The items are explained in the following memoranda:—

Prisoners Department:—Subsistence of prisoners, $35,000. Provision made in Estimates, $230,000.

The daily average number of prisoners in custody during the period January-September, 1936 was 1874 as compared with the daily average of 1472 in 1933, 1610 in 1934, and 1796 in 1935, and in consequence of this unforeseen increase in numbers, it is anticipated that a further sum of $35,000 will be required, this year, to meet additional expenditure under this sub-head.

A supplementary vote for this amount is accordingly requested.

Miscellaneous Services:—Rent of Public Telephones, $15,000. Provision made in Estimates, $15,000.

Owing to congestion on the Government exchange it was found necessary during the current year to reduce the number of Government telephones by fifteen and to rent public telephones in lieu. The cost of the Directory has also increased. Funds provided in 1936 Estimates are insufficient to cover this additional outlay and it is estimated that a further sum of $1,000 will be required to meet expenditure on this sub-head up to the end of the year.

A supplementary vote for this amount is accordingly requested.

Medical Department:—Washing, $3,000. Provision made in Estimates, $18,500.

The total number of in-patients treated in hospital during the first 8 months of this year was 9,291 as compared with 8,156 for the corresponding period of last year, being an increase of 1,135. The balance in hand at the end of end of September was only $2,683.35 and it is anticipated that a further sum of $3,000 will be required before the end of the year.

A supplementary vote for this amount is now requested.

POLICE FORCE

Police Force:—Subsistence of Prisoners, $1,800. Provision made in Estimates, $3,500.

Owing to an increase in the number of prisoners and witness for whom meals have had to be provided, it is estimated that a further sum of $1,800 will be required to cover expenditure on the sub-head to the end of the year.

A supplementary vote for this amount is, therefore, requested.

Treasury:—Stamps, etc., $500. Provision made in Estimates, $2,500.

Owing to an increase in the number of documents stamped during the current year, the supply of certain denominations of stamps is becoming rapidly depleted, and is not considered sufficient to cover requirements until the annual order for 1937 is delivered. It is necessary, therefore, to order additional supplies now, and a further sum of $500 is required to meet this extra expenditure for which no provision was made in the Estimates for 1936. Government will, of course, be reimbursed for this expense as the stamps are sold.

A supplementary vote for $500 is accordingly requested.

Kowloon-Canton Railway:—Special Expenditure, New Boiler for Class B Locomotives, $9,971. Provision made in Estimates, $24,000.

Owing to the fall in exchange, a further sum of $8,971 is required to meet expenditure under this sub-head, the total cost of a new boiler being $30,970.50 whereas only $24,000 was provided in the Estimates for 1936.

A supplementary vote for the amount stated is, therefore, requested.

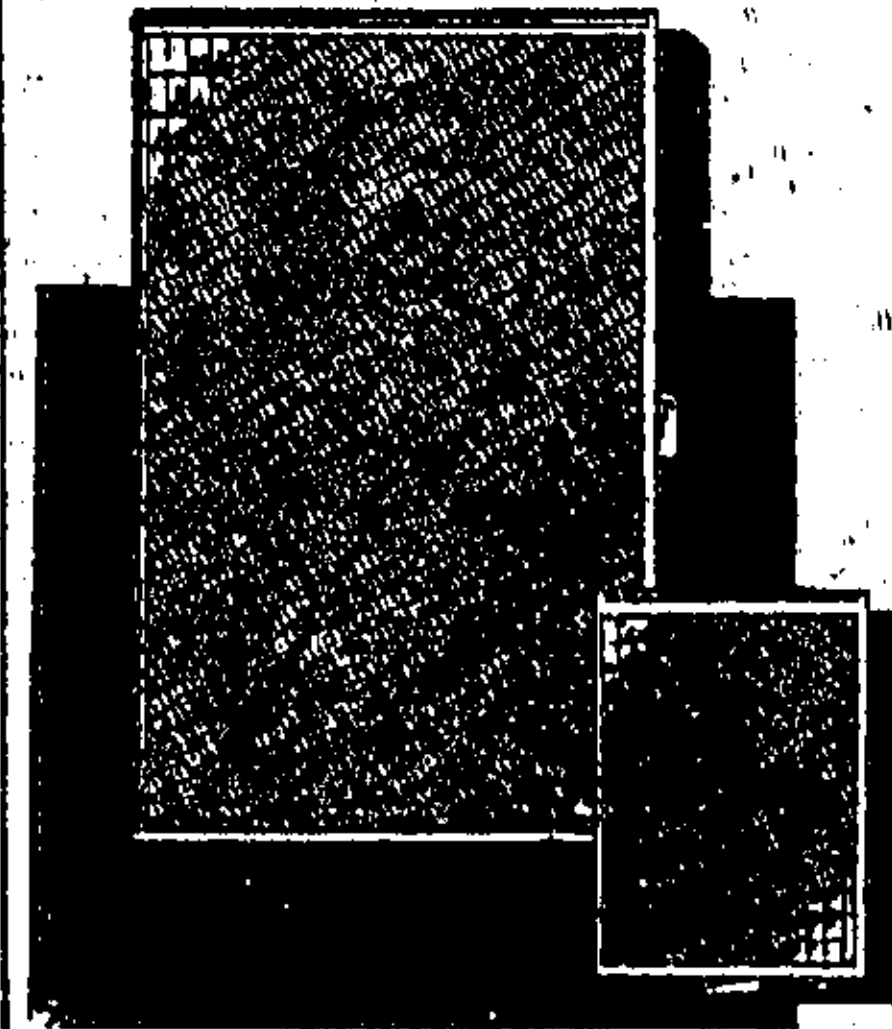

HOSPITAL VOTE

Public Works Extraordinary:—Queen Mary Hospital, $460,000. Provision made in Estimates, $1,600,000.

The cost of the Queen Mary Hospital was estimated at $3,502,000, but owing to the heavy fall in exchange in the interval the re-

Naval Control Of Naval Aircraft

With the development of the Air Arm of the Navy the problem of control has become a major one which has its reactions as far distant from the centre of activity as to China.

Let us analyse the position which is of peculiar interest to a great number of people at present in this Colony.

In sea warfare under modern conditions aircraft are an essential part of a navy. It would seem likewise essential that the Admiralty, which has complete control over the Navy's ships, should also have complete control over the Navy's airplanes. But this, in Britain, is not the case.

Our Fleet Air Arm is controlled to some extent by the Admiralty, but to a much greater extent by the Air Ministry. There is a growing realisation that the difficulties of this system—a legacy of the Balfour Committee on the relations of the Navy and Air Force—might become positive dangers in time of war. Hence the demand of certain members of Parliament that control of Fleet aircraft be unified.

Last July Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for Co-ordination of Defence, started an inquiry into the question, and it may be supposed that by now he is coming to his conclusions.

At one time even expert opinion was content to believe that one aircraft was very like another, and that one Ministry should be responsible for the design, supply and operations of all of them. It was on these assumptions that the Air Ministry was formed.

Now, however, it is realised that the problem is not how to fly aircraft—almost anyone can do that—but how to use them. It is because of this change of circumstances that the Fleet claims to control and man the aircraft which form part of it.

The present system is fantastic. To-day, operations of aircraft embarked in ships are the responsibility of the Navy; those of Naval Co-operation aircraft ashore are the responsibility of the Air Force. As soon as an aircraft crosses the high water mark it comes under the control of a different Department of State.

Naval officer pilots have an Air Force rank superimposed upon their Naval rank; and they come under different conditions of seniority and service, depending upon whether they happen to be in the hangar of their aircraft carrier, or, a few yards off, on her quarter-deck; upon whether they are hoisting out of the water a seaplane or a boat.

As a people we are very tolerant, and none of these considerations, nor a hundred like them, could prevent our Naval and Air Force personnel from remaining good friends. But that is in spite of the regulations, and not because of them.

The present system is foolish in peace, but it might be abso-

RIDING IN HONG KONG

BY F. A. OLSEN

Now that the cooler weather is due, the riding members of the Colony will be checking over the gear that has lain aside during the hot weather and working the fat off their ponies in preparation for the riding and hunting season, and considering the really excellent facilities for enjoying this sport, the sport that is incomparable in interest and as a means for keeping fit, it is surprising that it does not enjoy greater popularity.

For those who desire hunting there is the Fanling Hunt and Race Club where they have a meet every Wednesday and Sunday and, although the fox takes the form of an aniseed bottle owing to the difficulty in closing up the holes made by Monsieur Reynard, some really fine runs are to be enjoyed.

There is an amusing story told of the first hunt in the Colony. Many years ago, one observant young officer noticed a few foxes roaming around the countryside and after consultation with other keen horsemen decided to hold a hunt. The villagers were notified and one farmer was delegated to close up the fox holes and to keep a friendly eye on the fox so as to be able to guide the huntmen in the general direction. After great preparation the long awaited day arrived; a truly brave sight, the military in gorgeous uniforms (they wore them then), all waiting for the farmer.

He eventually trudged along carrying a bag over his shoulder, seemingly greatly surprised at such a gathering and appearing to be in no great hurry to start. When at last he was made to understand that "now" was the time to "go, catch fox," he smiled and producing his bag, said "Have got two pieces."

Fanling boasts of another club, "The Cottage Club," which is, I believe, the youngest of its kind in the Colony. In the club house, which reminds one of an old-fashioned English farm house, there is accommodation for those members and their families who wish to stay over the week-end. Paper chases and cavalades are organised over the good riding country that Fanling can provide.

The Equine Sports Club at Shatin, besides being conveniently situated opposite the railway station, offers great facilities for all forms of riding. There is a schooling ground where one may get useful practice over the various jumps that have been erected for the convenience of members. In addition there is a track 1/3 mile in circumference that is ideal for an early morning gallop. The surrounding country, which is for the most part, hilly, provides some interesting rides, the scenery adding greatly to the attraction.

CONFIRMED OPIUM ADDICTS TO BE SHOT

Peking, Nov. 4.

The penalty of opium and heroin smoking being death, the Peking authorities have decided to exercise the death penalty on over one thousand confirmed opium and heroin addicts on January 1, 1937.

Accordingly, the coffin shops of the Southern Section of the City have received orders to have in readiness necessary coffins, and are working day and night.

lately fatal in war. Drastic alteration is essential.

The sensible solution is that the Naval Commander-in-Chief should have under his orders all aircraft engaged in naval warfare, whether they are based afloat or ashore. For in war he would clearly have no time to consult an Air Force officer a hundred miles away.

The Admiralty should be able to lay down what types of aircraft, equipment and reserves are necessary to enable the Navy to discharge its responsibilities. And the man who do the jobs—the pilots, observers, wireless operators and gunners—should be freed from the anomalies which now handicap them.

EDEN AND PLAIN SPEAKING

Foreign Situation Reviewed

LEAGUE SHOULD BE STRENGTHENED

London, Nov. 5.

Reviewing the foreign situation in the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Anthony Eden said he would not emulate the practice of making statements on international policy from a public rostrum in unadvised tones, but that it was desirable to state the Government's view plainly.

Britain's relations with France were close and cordial, he said. It was perhaps natural, in a disturbed world, that the two great Western democracies should be drawn together. But there was nothing exclusive in this friendship. What he said about France applied equally to Belgium.

There had been repeated declarations in Germany of a desire for a closer Anglo-German friendship, which Britain genuinely desired, he added.

BRITAIN BLAMED

Commenting on the tendency, noticeable in Germany, to blame Britain for Germany's economic difficulties, Mr. Eden said the Government could not accept this doctrine which was not in accordance with the facts.

While it would be impossible to detail Britain's attempts at economic and financial co-operation with Germany since the war, he could say that Britain had lent Germany almost the equivalent of what she had received in reparations.

The Government would welcome Germany's participation in the tripartite currency declaration, he said.

ANGLO-ITALIAN RELATIONS

The deterioration of Anglo-Italian relations was due to Great Britain's endeavours to fulfil her obligations under the League of Nations Covenant. There was never an Anglo-Italian quarrel until Italy realised that their relations would suffer.

Replying to Signor Benito Mussolini's challenging speech of November 1, Mr. Eden said that the Mediterranean provided not a short cut but a main arterial route in commerce with the East. England did not challenge Signor Mussolini's words that the Mediterranean was Italy's very life, but affirmed that the freedom of communications in the Mediterranean was a vital interest of the British Commonwealth.

ASSURANCE WELCOMED

The Government welcomed Signor Mussolini's assurance that Italy did not intend to threaten Mediterranean security. Britain did not desire to threaten or attack any Italian interests in the Mediterranean.

Britain intended to take the lead in securing a European settlement, but no such settlement was possible unless Britain possessed strength both of purpose and of arms. Britain's equipment must be all-embracing, but there would never be enduring peace without an armaments agreement, he declared.

SACRIFICE TO ARMS

Nations, observed Mr. Eden, were beginning to sacrifice their standard of living to a standard of armaments. The stronger was Britain, the greater the certainty of peace.

The three elements in the Government's programme were:

1. Strengthening the League's authority;
2. Negotiating a European settlement; and
3. Re-equipping Britain's defences.

GERMAN CHANCE

Expressing the opinion that the next twelve or eighteen months might be our last chance of averting a European conflict and a world war, Mr. Winston Churchill urged Britain to stand by the League of Nations and try to bring therein the largest number of peace-seeking but well-armed nations to overawe potential aggressors.

Mr. Churchill suggested that Germany, if she feared Soviet aggression, should enter the League, and then all Europe would guarantee to assist German against Russian aggression. If the exertions of Britain were not supported proportionately by others and collectively by others and collective security was shown to be a fraud and the League an idle dream, then Britain and France together would be very dangerous to attack.

Mr. Churchill suggested that the naval Powers in the Mediterranean might reciprocally agree not to molest each others sea communications.

NEW PROJECT IN KWANTUNG

Mineral Resources Adequate

BRITISH EXPERTS' REPORT

Shanghai, Nov. 6.

The prospect of the development of the heavy industry in Kwantung is most encouraging, declared Mr. K. Lund, representative of an important British engineering and industrial group when interviewed by Reuter on his return to China from London.

Mr. Lund, who recently completed a contract for the erection of a big iron and steel works in Canton, announced that a highly satisfactory report has been received from the committee of British experts who surveyed the mineral resources of Kwantung in connection with the new undertaking. The experts reported these were entirely adequate to the needs of the project as large reserves of iron, ore, limestone and coal are available with convenience at the localities.

Mr. Lund expressed the hope that the project, regarding which businessmen in both Hong Kong and Canton were enthusiastic, would mark the beginning of a new era of Anglo-Chinese financial and economic co-operation.

might reciprocally agree not to molest each others sea communications.

Referring to Russia, Mr. Churchill attributed the revolution in Spain largely to Soviet influence, and said that it would be quite impossible for the three nations of the western world to interest themselves in the fate of Russia, if she continued to present herself in this guise, but a peace-seeking Russia would be an indispensable element in the equipolice of peace in the East and West.

REPLY BY CHAMBERLAIN

Replying in the debate, Mr. Neville Chamberlain said that what Britain had to work for if she was to preserve collective security and make it a reality, was first of all the strengthening of the League of Nations and to buttress it by some system which would help to maintain peace in those portions of the world most subject to stress and strain.

He suggested regional pacts might be entered into by nations vitally interested in the regions covered by pacts.

The Government would like to see an eastern European pact similar to the western pact. Britain would not participate in the eastern pact but that did not mean that Britain gave a free hand to any other country to do what it liked or that the Government undertook not to interfere in any circumstances. Britain would keep a free hand to consider circumstances of a case and would confine her actual obligations to those of regional pacts which concerned her vital interests.

All regional pacts would be subject to Britain's general obligations under the League Covenant. Mr. Chamberlain concluded.

NAVAL DISTRIBUTION Probable Changes Of The Future

BY SIR HERBERT RUSSELL

When an extensive dislocation takes place in the armed pole of a country the return to normal takes a long time. Very much more often than not there is no complete return to normal. The causes of the dislocation commonly leave effects which endure after the dislocation itself has entirely subsided.

About a year ago now British sea power practically all over the world was suddenly dislocated by Italian threats. The Fascist Press, which, being Government controlled, is naturally assumed to speak with Government authority, rose to a crescendo of abuse and menaces. Then there came a pause as of consternation and astonishment at the spectacle, all of a sudden as it seemed, of a great British Fleet assembled in the Eastern Mediterranean and a second British Fleet gathered at Gibraltar in quite sufficient strength to pretty effectively dispute the passage of the Strait to any Mediterranean Power.

This is now all a matter of history. The great Fleet in the Eastern Mediterranean has faded away, the ships which constituted it having dispersed, mostly to their normal stations. But the situation is not the same as it was down to a year ago; it will never be quite the same again.

MEDITERRANEAN FLEET

Down to a year ago strategical students were still arguing, from time to time, as to whether a Mediterranean Fleet was really of much value to this country. They put forward perfectly good academic reason working up to an answer in the negative. Fascist Italy has now put forward a reason which overtops the lot and I do not imagine that we shall hear any more from the anti-Mediterranean school at any rate for quite a long time to come.

As if to round off the dislocation attributable to Italian action there came the upheaval in Spain. In the ordinary way this need not have caused any particular "flap" in the Mediterranean Command, because it is quite as far from Malta to Gibraltar as from the English Channel to Gibraltar, and all ships necessary to the protection of British lives and property could have been sent from home waters in quite as short a space of time. In the ordinary way, I say. But we were not back to the ordinary way; there were still British warships "up the Straits" which strictly belonged elsewhere, and thus it came about that the Mediterranean was directly associated with the fine services which the Royal Navy was able to render, many of them not in the Mediterranean at all. Hence one is able to understand the growing impression in the public mind that the Mediterranean is once again the most important cruising area for the British Navy.

COLONIAL OBLIGATION

To say that this country is a world sea power is merely to recall a truism, yet it is a truism that needs bearing in mind in relation to the present subject.

Most of the naval Powers could send virtually the whole of their fleet strength to wherever it seemed most "needed" without leaving great overseas interests unprotected. France comes nearest to ourselves in her colonial obligations, but a very long way off from us in the extent of those obligations. The governing idea upon which the distribution of British sea power is based and has been modified from time to time is the dividing up of strength in such a manner as to get the fullest possible value out of it. This value has a twofold character: defensive and political. It is assessed upon the current peace-time posture of world affairs. There is no pretence that the disposition of our naval forces to-day would remain the same in the event of an imminent threat of war. We have seen what happened, very unobtrusively and very promptly, when Italy indulged too freely in aggressive heresies. One of the great advantages of this era of high mobility and wireless is that it gives quality of flexibility to what may be called the static plans for stationing our warships. When any threat of war begins to assume such a sinister form as to enable the Admiralty to get down to strategical planning, the scheme of concentration, whatever it may be, is very swiftly put in motion. Long before August 1914, the disposition of the British Navy was one of immediate geographical readiness for a war that was clearly indicated in everything but the opening shots. To-day the dis-

LORD JELICOE'S OPINION

Lord Jellicoe was right. I do not mean to say that there then was, nor now is, any serious prospect of a war with Japan. But I do say that, looking about the world after the end of the Great War and asking if there was to be another sea war where it would most likely break out, the answer given by Lord Jellicoe was the most probable one. Within the past year Signor Mussolini has given us cause for very serious reflections on this same subject and, in fact, introduced a new element of influence into British naval dispositions. But there is nothing of national inevitability in the "roaring speeches" of a dictator.

"For 'available strength' I think the British Empire—and not a few other nationals as well—get the fullest possible value out of the present distribution of the Royal Navy. As the fleet expands under the strenuous programme of new construction, we shall undoubtedly witness additions to our overseas squadrons. These will be undemonstratively made and not obviously pointed against any particular Power. If any particular Power chooses to assert that such changes are in any part deliberately pointed at it that need not trouble us. The role of the British Navy is to try and maintain peace, and if this mission necessitates an addition of strength in any particular sphere there is no question of apologizing to anybody for making that addition. Even less spectacular, but certainly not less important, is the work of greatly strengthening the defences of our main chain of naval bases which is now in progress. From 'The Naval and Military Record'.

MUST REMOVE FAULTS

Neville Chamberlain And The League

Foreign Affairs Debate In Commons

London, November 6. Referring to the future of the League of Nations and the Regional pacts in his speech in the Foreign Affairs debate in the House of Commons last night, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain said that if the League had not succeeded in carrying out the intentions of those who founded it, they should not necessarily abandon it. They must either decide that there was some other method of attaining peace or try to find out and remove the faults which caused the failure of the League.

Neville Chamberlain

As far as he knew, there was only one practical alternative to the method of the League. That was the method of alliances and they all knew what that led to. The present Government in particular, had made clear over and over again that they set their faces against the division of Europe into opposing blocs of powers linked together in alliances with Britain endeavouring to hold the balance of the power between them or allying herself with one or the other of those blocs. They believed that that system had gone and was not likely to be revived and that, therefore, their only hope was to continue their endeavours to find a system of collective security which would establish and maintain peace.

What they had to work for, if they were to preserve collective security and make it a reality, was to try to strengthen the League and then to buttress it by some adequate system which would help to maintain peace in the parts of the world which were most subject to stress and strain. Might not the fact that every nation had some interests which were vital to it be utilised to make regional pacts? In that case they would be able to rely on nations acting up to their obligations, since they must do so in defence of their own interests.

So far as the British Government was concerned, the fact that they had entered into such a pact did not mean that other powers could do anything they liked elsewhere. Regional pacts must be subject to general obligations under the League Covenant. They were not intended to be the substitute for them but they would usefully play a great part in the attainment of general security.

TIN PRICES TO RISE

Covering Operations In London

ACCORD IN QUOTA REACHED

London, Nov. 5.

After a day of alarms and excursions, the position of the leading base metals seems at least temporarily determined.

Some operators in the tin market found themselves caught on the wrong foot by the announcement of the production agreement with Siam and rushed to cover, scienting a further strong advance in prices when the outside speculative element, which has long been dormant in this metal, awakens to the fact that there is plenty of life in the old Restrictions Scheme yet.

Brokers are generally bullish, some even saying, "The advance has hardly begun." Their optimism is largely based on the fact that the world's visible stocks are only 13,300 tons, which, it is held, the United States is able "to lap up overnight," when the smallness of the supplies in that country is appreciated.

The only surprise caused in copper circles by the announcement of an increased production quota, was the size of the advance, which many expected would be only five per cent.

TERMS WILL BE RATIFIED

Paris, Nov. 5.

The terms of the new tin production agreement will not be divulged until approved by the Governments to which they have been submitted.

The International Tin Committee, and those close to it, are confident the terms will be ratified by the People's Assembly in Bangkok, which must be specially summoned since it is not sitting at present.

A decision is expected by mid-December.

INDIGNATION IN PALESTINE

London, Nov. 6.

The Statement of the Colonial Secretary, (Mr. Ormsby Gore) in the House of Commons announcing the temporary suspension of Jewish immigration into Palestine has caused great indignation in Arab circles in that country, according to telegrams from Jerusalem. The Arab leaders speak of breaking off all relations to the Mandatory Government and the Royal Commission of Inquiry. They say that Britain has learned nothing from the past months, the Arab uprising being mainly motivated by Jewish immigration. The Higher Arab Committee will meet on Friday to discuss the situation.

The "Daily Telegraph" is of the opinion that the statement of the Colonial Secretary constitutes a severe blow to the Polish Ambassador, who only last month requested that Jewish immigration into Palestine should not be reduced or suspended.

MEETING DELAYED

Chinese Political Circles Mystified

Shanghai, Nov. 6.

Delay in arranging the seventh meeting between the Foreign Minister, Mr. Chang Chun, and the Japanese Ambassador, Mr. Shigeru Kawagoe, is mystifying Chinese political circles, who expected the interview to follow immediately the Ambassador's return from Tokyo.

Officials of the Japanese Embassy in Nanking have conferred with Mr. Kawagoe daily this week, but hitherto no result of these conferences has been indicated.

A Chinese journal, the "Eastern News," says the North China issue and the proposed anti-Communist pact have been shelved by the negotiators in order to attain a measure of agreement on minor points. Japanese circles point out that this would not mean that Japan is prepared to drop her proposals in these matters, but would indicate a change in her method of approach. It is felt that agreement on some points at least will help to clear the air and produce an atmosphere more conducive to settlement of the more vital issues.

RUSSIA IN THE ARCTIC

"Times" Comment On Development

London, Nov. 6.

In an editorial regarding a series of articles on "Russia in the Arctic" which concluded to-day, the "Times" asks:

What is the Soviet Government's purpose in developing an enormous expense the icebound regions in northern Siberia?

The reasons fall into two main groups, military and economic. If Russia can guarantee her ships passage at least for part of the year along the Northern Seas as she is now trying to do not only will she take much traffic from the Trans-Siberian railway but would have an all-Russian route in war time for small battleships and merchantmen.

The Soviet also realised, the editorial comments, that if traffic through the Arctic Sea is to be of any value it must be refuelled and re-equipped en route. Hence the constructing of towns and factories throughout the North.

CAPITAL SHIPS DAYS NOT OVER

London, Nov. 5.

A report has been made public of the Sub-Committee of the Committee of the Imperial Defence appointed to enquire into the vulnerability of capital ships to air attack. The Committee declares that the day of the capital ships is not over and to cease to build them would lead to grave risks. The Committee dismisses the contention that air forces could take the place of capital ships, in opposing the attack of enemy battleships on lighter naval forces engaged in the defence of territory or trade routes.

Valuable information has been obtained by an experiment regarding methods of construction to reduce damage done by individual bomb and to localise its effects, and the Committee is satisfied the lessons are being applied to ensure that capital ships are designed and built to give the maximum of immunity from air attack.

The report emphasises that aircraft remain as vulnerable as ever to anti-aircraft fire and the target they offer increases with their size.

Mr. James Farley, the Postmaster-General, is understood to be desirous of returning to a high-salaried position in private business, but he will certainly retain the Democratic National Party Chairmanship after his triumphant organisation of the President's campaign.

GERMAN PENAL CODE

Completion Announced

Berlin, Nov. 5.
At a press reception in the Ministry of Justice, Dr. Guertner, Minister of Justice, announced that the Commission appointed by Adolf Hitler in 1933 to revise the German Penal Code had now completed its work.

The Chancellor's instructions to the Commission had been to create the German Penal Code anew in accordance with the newly gained fundamental views of the present time.

Interesting details of the new German Penal Code were made after Dr. Guertner, Minister of Justice, announced its completion at the press reception on Thursday.

A jurist speaking on the subject "murder" and "manslaughter" announced that "a murder" under the new code is a person who kills another in a fit of homicidal passion for sexual reasons, out of greed or other ignoble motives, in a treacherous or cruel manner, or with a dangerous implement, or in preparation of another crime. All other cases of intentional killing are regarded as "manslaughter," and punishable by prison terms ranging from 5 years to life.

An innovation is made in the form of punishment for persons equipping themselves with dangerous implements for committing murder. "The irresponsible endangering of human life" is also punishable. Suicide or aiding and abetting another person to suicide is not punishable under the new code.

A chapter for the "protection of children" declares that the most valuable asset of the Nation is the child. Therefore the incitement of restricting the number of children in the family is punishable.

In Match Against Victoria

BARNETT HITS CENTURY

Melbourne, Nov. 6.
The M.C.C. touring cricket team scored 326 for the loss of seven wickets at the close of the first day's play in their match against Victoria.

J. Hardstaff (Nottingham) contributed 85 and C. J. Barnett (Gloucester) knocked up 131.

Making his first appearance in the tour, Maurice Leyland (Yorkshire) scored 24. The M.C.C. lost three wickets for 96.

At lunch the total was 74 for 2, and at tea 200 for 3 (Barnett 107 not out).

The match will last four days. There were 1,500 spectators present when the match was started. The weather was cool and the wicket fairly fast. The 200 was reached after 190 minutes' play and 300 in 213 minutes.

Leyland gave a chance when he had scored only 8 but otherwise he displayed encouraging form with late cutting and leg glancing. He was at the wicket for 65 minutes and scored two boundaries.

Barnett reached his 100 in 135 minutes. At 8 he gave a chance. He had a sound defence and his batting was crisp. He scored 131 in 216 minutes, hitting 19 fours.

Hardstaff combined restraint with aggression and was confident, after an unsteady start. He was at the crease for 154 minutes and hit 11 boundaries.

Together, Barnett and Hardstaff collected 143 for the fourth wicket which included 100 scored in 17 minutes.

FINANCE COMMITTEE MEETING

vised cost is now estimated at $3,915,000.

The expenditure to end of 1935 was $1,323,380.11 and the provision made in the current year's estimates $1,600,000. It is now proposed to spend $2,000,000 this year, the increase of $400,000 being mainly due to higher cost of materials in terms of local currency and partly to acceleration of work.

A supplementary vote for $400,000 is accordingly requested.

Public Works Extraordinary—Laying out new areas, Chinese Cemeteries, $4,000.

Provision made in Estimates, $2,000.

Owing to the collapse of certain parts of Hominin Cemetery as a result of the heavy rainfall in August and September, it has been necessary to transfer all Section "T" burials to the New Kowloon Cemetery No. 7 at Ngau Chi Wan.

This re-arrangement necessitates provision of additional burial spaces in the New Kowloon Cemetery No. 7, and a further sum of $4,000 is required to cover this extra expenditure.

A supplementary vote for this amount is accordingly requested.

Defence—A. Volunteer Defence Corps—48 S.M.L.E. Rifles, $792.

Provision made in Estimates, $2,160.

The provision in 1936 Estimates for these rifles was made at the rate of $1=1/8d. The amount provided has, in consequence of the fall in exchange, proved insufficient.

A supplementary vote for $792 is now requested.

OPIMUM ADDICTS
Medical Department:—Treatment of Opium Addicts, $56.

Provision made in Estimates, $1,000.

The expenditure on this sub-head has been greater than was anticipated and a supplementary vote for $56 is requested to cover this year's commitments.

Miscellaneous Services:—Rent Allowances—Asiatic Subordinate Officers, $12,500.

Provision made in Estimates, $120,000.

Officers of this class who rent approved accommodation are entitled to rent allowances, being the difference between the rents actually paid and 6 per cent. of the officers' salary, subject to certain maxima based on salary scales.

Owing to the temporary levy on salaries the deductions have been less than was anticipated, and it is estimated that a further sum of $12,500 will be required to cover expenditure on this sub-head during the current year.

A supplementary vote for this amount is requested.

TYPHOON DAMAGE
Public Works Recurrent:—Hong Kong, Typhoon and Rainstorm Damages, $100,000.

Provision made in Estimates, $15,000.

The typhoon of 17th August, 1936, caused considerable damage to Government Buildings, Roads, Waterworks, Port Works, Drainage systems, etc., of the Colony.

A sum of $100,000 in addition to the amount provided in the Estimates is required to meet the cost of repairs and a supplementary vote for the amount stated is accordingly requested.

Public Works Recurrent:—Kowloon, Typhoon and Rainstorm Damages, $35,000.

Provision made in Estimates, $5,000.

The typhoon of 17th August, 1936, and previous rainstorms caused considerable damage to Government Buildings, Roads, Water Works, Port Works, Drainage systems, etc., in the New Kowloon District.

A sum of $25,000 in addition to the amount provided in the Estimates is required to meet the cost of repairs and a supplementary vote for the amount stated is accordingly requested.

FIGHT NOT CANCELLED

In Spite Of U.S. Suspension

Providence, R.I., Nov. 6.

Edward Foster, Secretary of the National Boxing Association informed Reuter to-day that he had cabled to the British Board of Boxing Control notifying them of the suspension of John Henry Lewis, and stating that in no case must he fight until the suspension is lifted.

Mr. Foster said that he had no doubt the BBBC would agree to respect this, but Reuter was informed by the British Board of Control that next Monday's fight between Lewis and Len Harvey would go on in any case.

Foster later informed Reuter that the National Boxing Association was prepared to lift the suspension if Lewis promises to give the District of Columbia promoters first call on his services when he returns to America.

Subsequently in an interview Mr. Foster expressed surprise in the British Boxing Board of Control's attitude, observing that it was the first time the British authorities had ever refused to honour suspensions ordered by the National Boxing Association.

Royal Artillery Association

I would, however, remind you of the objects of the Association, which are:

1. To maintain the spirit of comradeship between those who serve, those who have served, and those who may serve, in any rank or capacity, as Artillerymen. To make all ranks feel in truth the tradition—

"Once a Gunner, always a Gunner."

2. To foster esprit de corps and to maintain the proud Artillery tradition—"Ubique"—"Everywhere throughout the world."

3. To establish Branches and Gunner Friends everywhere throughout the world who may hold out the helping hand of comradeship to all Artillerymen, their families and dependents, who are in need.

4. To organize assistance to members in search of work.

It is to further these objects that Artillerymen join our Association.

OBJECTS FULFILLED

How have these objects been attained in the past? We see tonight in this remote corner of the Empire a fulfilment of the first two objects; over 300 "Gunnery" assembled in comradeship and glad of their tradition.

In benevolence amongst Gunner families over £18,000 has been expended—some £3,500 during 1935. Last year, 1,285 of our Regiment found regular, and 5,469 found casual employment through our Bureaux. This in itself shows the value of the work of your Association, the expenses of running which amounted to only £500 during last year.

But the Association has another function which it performs in furtherance of its objects. It draws Gunners of all ranks, serving and retired, together in entertainments. We have one to-night; we are having another to-morrow week, Saturday, 14th November, here—a Dance, 8.30 p.m. to 1 a.m.—tickets, Gents $1.00, Ladies 50 cts. I hope Members will note the date and roll up with their friends. We went 100 couples at least to make it self-supporting.

COMRADESHIP OF GUNNERS

I would emphasize here that no R.A.A. funds are or can be expended on entertainment, neither are "profits" taken by the Association, but they are expended in reducing prices of future entertainments, so—help yourselves by enjoying yourselves—the more the cheaper. In so doing you are also furthering the object of the Association—comradeship of Gunners. At the same time, don't forget that we want all Gunners to be members—we are doing well in this Branch, having some 500 members out of a strength of 600. Can't you bring in the remaining 100? Are there any ex-Artillerymen in the Colony still apart from us? We who are serving are glad indeed to see amongst us those who, although they have done their bit, still remember that they are "Gunnery" and foregather with their comrades. We have in our midst Volunteer Gunners who aid us in our work, and we are glad that they also share with us in social activities.

Gentlemen I ask you to rise and honour this toast—"The Royal Artillery Association."

For entertainment after dinner an excellent programme of varieties, was kindly rendered by the following artistes:—Messrs. Mason, Wythe, Gifford, Ash, Barton, Twine, Bdr. Leslie and 1/Bdr. Hebdon, and all items were well received by the audience.

THOSE PRESENT

Among those who were present at the dinner party were:—Major Gen. A. W. Bartholomew C.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., Col. A. Burrows, C.R.A., Lt. Col. M. Carrington Sykes, M.C., Lt. Col. D. C. Wilson, Lieut. Col. W. T. O. Crewdson, Major G. K. Dibb, M.C., Major J. S. Drennan M.C., Major R. C. Gill, Lieut. Col. E. E. Mockler-Ferryman, M.C., Major G. M. Churcher M.C., Capt. J. Hooper, Capt. W. F. Rycroft, Capt. I. M. Scott, Capt. D. W. Perce, Capt. M. J. Morris Jones, Capt. T. Addis Martin, Capt. A. F. H. Godfrey, Lieut. H. C. Withers, Lieut. (QM) W. D. P. A. O'Grady, Lieut. F. Peck M.B.E., D.C.M., Lieut. A. E. Hazell, M.B.E., Lieut. D. H. N. Baker, Carr., Lieut. J. T. Marsh, Lieut. L. C. Marion, Lieut. G. R. Q. Henriques, Lieut. J. M. Wood, Lieut. G. P. M. Moffat, Lieut. D. I. Simmons, Lieut. E. R. E. Dayrell, Lieut. H. I. C. Chauvin, Lieut. C. D. B. Campling, Lieut. D. Marshall, Lieut. J. W. P. Symons, the members of Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps.

To admire the various features would require much more space than a daily newspaper can allow and much more time than this early hour of the morning will permit, but one could go on and on in superlatives concerning the entire entertainment.

Cabaret, was provided by the "Million Airmen Parade," whose acts were very well received, but the tap-dancing encores were spoilt by their inordinate length. An encore, even for a good turn, should never be a complete repetition. However, these very energetic tap-dancers "shimmied" through two good numbers which certainly helped the festivities along. Jack Grenham and Bill Simpson were excellent in "Oga Pulovsky" who, apparently, was a beautiful spy of decidedly flexible ethics.

It is essential at such shows to have an adaptable Master of Ceremonies, and in that role Mr. G. G. Stopani-Thomson played his part with great gusto.

As has already been said and reiterated, this Bal Masque was a great show, and its success reflects very great credit indeed upon those responsible for its organising, particularly on the ability and energy of Mrs. Beatrice Church, who, by the way, was certainly one of the most beautiful and arresting of figures as Mary Queen of Scots.

In the grand parade shortly before midnight, about 400 participated, and the judges had a very hard task to arrive at decisions.

However, after lengthy consultation, the following awards and prizes were announced:—

PRIZE WINNERS

Ladies:—Most original.—1. Miss Enid Boulton (Telephone girl); 2. Miss J. Leppard (Aeroplane girl).

Most beautiful.—1. Mrs. Woolland (Indian girl); 2. Miss Zaya Nurroz (The Lady in Blue).

Gentlemen:—Most original.—1. Pay-Lieut. G. H. A. Harper, R.N. (Harpo); 2. Captain B. M. Shean (Doctor).

Most beautiful.—Lieut. K. J. Harper, R.N., and Lieut. M. G. Stewart, R.N. (Turks).

Canton Visitors Say Farewell

is particularly grateful for the kindness Lady Caldecott has shown her. "We have been no less impressed by the overwhelming enthusiasm shown to our visit by our own nationals in Hong Kong and by the magnificent spirit with which they arranged all the welcome meetings and receptions. We are coming away from Hong Kong with the memories of two most pleasant days spent there and we earnestly hope that there will be further exchanges of such informal visits in the future."

ADMIRATION FOR BRITISH TROOPS

"From the very moment we alighted at the Kowloon station to the last minute we were in Hong Kong we were well taken care of, all arrangements made for us being very splendid. We were much impressed by and we have great admiration for the smartness of the British troops which we were given the honour to inspect, the fine work of the military bands, and the efficiency of the police who rendered us excellent service wherever we went. We are most appreciative of the fine work done by all those who so ably and thoughtfully organised the various entertainments for us."

"The trip to Shing Mun where we were given the privilege of inspecting the great dam now nearing completion has been most interesting. We were deeply impressed by marvellous work being undertaken there—a perfectly amazing engineering feat. Here we desire to express our special thanks to His Excellency Governor and Lady Caldecott for personally accompanying us to the place and to Mr. Gifford Hall for explaining to us in detail the project."

"PEACE AND PROSPERITY" The visit has helped us to make personal contacts not only with the high officials of the Government of Hong Kong but also the leaders of the business community and we want as we depart to return to our city to once more assure our friends in Hong Kong that we shall continue to work for closer co-operation and strive to achieve the realisation of our common goal—peace and prosperity."

UNIVERSITY LECTURE

Mechanical Calculators

An interesting lecture was given by Mr. D. W. Morley, of the Engineering Faculty of the Hong Kong University, at a meeting of the Hong Kong University Engineering Society.

The title of the lecture was "Mechanical Calculators" and Mr. Morley was ably assisted by one of the students with appropriate lantern slides.

Representatives were chosen by the first and second year students. For the first year members: Chan Po King and Frederic Ying; second year: Lew Allay.

Mr. Morley said: "I am going to try to describe the essential mechanical features of calculating machines, not of the logarithmic scale or slide-rule variety. Such machines are frequently seen in shops, in the form of cash registers, and in offices as calculators for general arithmetical processes adding, subtracting, multiplying, dividing, etc. These machines do for an accountant what would be done for a clerk if you could give him a typewriter capable of spelling correctly. (Laughter.)"

With a knowledge of the output and appearance of the machines you will be in a position to appreciate the mechanical contrivances inside. I have therefore brought a few machines and illustrations."

The various illustrations were then shown on the screen. Continuing, Mr. Morley said, "The simplest calculator I know is the plain portable revolution counter with which you have become familiar in testing machines."

Pictures were shown of the different cash registers used in America, and which were kindly lent by the Office Appliance.

"Several objects may be in view when a firm buys a calculator or a shopkeeper buys a cash register. Speed is one, but I think the accuracy that can so easily be achieved probably takes first place. Incidentally, this means that the machine must be absolutely reliable, not subject to fits of dropping a number here and there, and sufficiently robust to stand the handling it is likely to receive," said Mr. Morley.

After explaining the mechanism of the adding machines on display, the lecturer concluded, "I hope that with the help of the model you have been able to gain some idea of the principle action of these machines, and it only remains now for me to thank you for your attention. Prof. Robertson for the loan of the Monroe machine, Messrs. Mustard and Co., Messrs. Dodwell and Co., and Messrs. The Office Appliance for their help and loan of machines, and the honorary Secretary for working the lantern."

Prof. C. M. Middleton-Smith proposed a vote of thanks to the speaker at the conclusion of the lecture.

Tea was later served.

CLOSER COOPERATION WITH GERMANY

London, Nov. 6.—The British people's desire for closer co-operation with Germany was voiced by the "Daily Telegraph" in an article dealing with Mr. Eden's speech in the House of Commons. As evidence of this desire the paper goes on to mention the Naval and Economic Agreements with Germany and concluding by insisting on the desirability of Germany's assistance in world trade.

The "Morning Post," commenting on the speech demands an alliance between Britain and France, while the "Daily Mail" manifests great satisfaction about the rapprochement with Italy.—Transocean News Service.
